35 Read the passage given below and answer the following questions.

‘In some countries, power usually changes between two main parties. Several other parties may exist, contest elections and win a few seats In the national legislatures. But only the two main parties have a serious chance of winning majority of seats to form government. Such a party system is called two-party system. The United States of America and The United Kingdom are examples of two-party system. If several parties compete for power, and more than two parties has a reasonable chance of coming to power either on their own strength or in alliance with others, we call it a multiparty system. Thus in India, we have a multiparty system. In this system, the government is formed by various parties coming together in a coalition. When several parties in a multiparty system join hands for the purpose of contesting elections and winning power, it is called an alliance or a front.’
